

Snaps' Sanctuary

Seattle Humane
THE HUMANE SOCIETY
FOR SEATTLE/KING COUNTY

SPOTLIGHT

PLEASE POST

Meet the Man Who Saved Snaps

Olympic Animal Sanctuary's Founder to Speak at Seattle Humane

The Seattle Humane Society invites you to a talk by Steve Markwell, the founder of Olympic Animal Sanctuary in Forks, who lives among 30-40 dangerous dogs and works to rehabilitate them.

Bring your lunch and come meet Steve and some of his dogs on Tuesday Nov. 10 from noon to 1:30 p.m. in the Seattle Humane Auditorium. The event is FREE and donations to Olympic Animal Sanctuary are encouraged.

The Olympic Animal Sanctuary is a nonprofit animal welfare and rescue organization that specializes in the care and rehabilitation of dogs considered non-adoptable.

The Sanctuary's most well-known resident is Snaps, the abused Pit Bull Terrier mix who made headlines in September when his teenage owner kicked him and goaded him to attack two women who stopped to help. Snaps was held for two months at the King County Animal Care and Control shelter where his fate looked uncertain.

The public rallied to Snaps' defense and he was released to Steve on Sept. 11. Steve tells us that Snaps is enjoying the Sanctuary, where he will live the rest of his life.

Please RSVP by Nov. 9 by calling 425-641-0080 or email us at humane@seattlehumane.org.

What:

Brown Bag Talk by Steve Markwell

When:

Tuesday, Nov. 10, noon to 1:30 p.m.

Where:

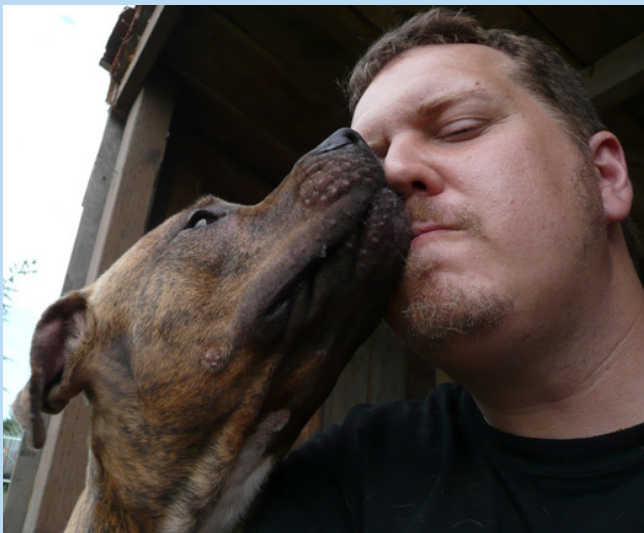

Seattle Humane Society Auditorium
13212 SE Eastgate Way, Bellevue, WA 98005

Cost:

FREE! Donation suggested to Olympic Animal Sanctuary

RSVP:

Call 425-641-0080 or email humane@seattlehumane.org

The Humane Society for Seattle/King County | 13212 SE Eastgate Way | Bellevue WA 98005
p: (425) 641-0080 | f: (425) 747-2985 | www.seattlehumane.org

Bringing people and pets together ... friendship is forever.